

Article Link<http://dealbook.blogs.nytimes.com/2010/03/29/another-view-prepare-consumers-don...>

Another view: The Agency Consumers Really Need

In this Op-Ed, IPA Research Affiliate Jonathan Zinman, writing with Victor Stango, draws on research findings to make suggestions for the role of the Consumer Protection Agency in the United States.Â Zinman praises, as an example, the promise of the Social Security Administration's research and development work on financial literacy. This work includes the launch of the Center for Financial Literacy at Boston College, of which IPA is an active partner.

March 30, 2010