

Article Link

<http://www.guardian.co.uk/global-development/poverty-matters/2011/apr/11/duflo-...>

"Duflo and Banerjee take the guesswork out of policies that help the poor"

"As Duflo put it in a Ted lecture, much of development policy has until now been on a par with medieval medicine - doing things based on habit, a hunch or misplaced belief - and she once likened development interventions as rather like using leeches."

April 11, 2011