

Article Link<https://www.ft.com/content/6083f74c-0260-11e7-aa5b-6bb07f5c8e12>

IPA's study on fighting hunger in Bangladesh in the Financial Times

The "hunger season," after last season's harvest has run out but before the new one has come in, is an annual problem in many farming communities. The Financial Times reports on IPAs successful test of an idea to incentivize family members to look for temporary work in the city to support their families. Based on our data, the program is now being scaled up there.

March 06, 2017