

Article Link<https://qz.com/1184026/researchers-find-that-a-chart-improves-child-health/>

Quartz Features IPA Research on Growth Charts in Zambia

Quartz reports on IPA findings in rural Zambia that simple, low-cost growth charts reduced malnutrition. Among previously malnourished children, the charts reduced stunting by 22 percentage points, and they appear to be a cost-effective tool to reduce physical growth deficits in this context. Read more about the evaluation here.

February 10, 2018