Overview
IPA’s Peace and Recovery (P&R) program has launched a call for off-cycle proposals to support the COVID-19 response. Those interested in applying are asked to first read the P&R Program’s Guiding Principles and Funding Priorities. Please keep in mind that applicants are encouraged to submit an Expression of Interest here before investing time in preparing a proposal.

Proposals will be reviewed on a rolling basis and may be offered funding before the deadlines below. That said, we expect to allocate the vast majority our funding in rounds.

Round I: April 6, 2020 11:59PM Pacific
Round II: April 13, 2020 11:59PM Pacific
Round III: April 20, 2020 11:59PM Pacific

We have two priorities for our COVID-19 off-cycle funding. To the degree possible, successful proposals will address both.

1. To produce information that can directly inform the humanitarian response to COVID-19
2. To produce generalizable knowledge that contributes academic literature on resilience, response, and recovery, in line with the goals and methods outlined in our Guiding Principles and Funding Priorities

Please reach out to peace@poverty-action.org with any questions.

Instructions
All proposals consist of a (i) cover sheet and narrative; (ii) budget form; and (iii) letters of support. Please submit all materials through our online portal, here by the deadlines above.

Cover sheet and narrative: Please use this template.

Budget: Please use this template.

Please keep the following in mind when developing your budget:

1. Awards are normally paid on a cost-reimbursable basis.
2. Universities in high-income countries (generally defined as the U.S., Canada, Western Europe, Japan, Korea, Singapore, Australia and New Zealand, Israel, and wealthy Middle Eastern countries) can charge up to 10% in indirect costs, applied to total direct costs.
3. Non-university non-profits from any location and universities from mid- or low-income countries may charge up to 15% in indirect costs, applied to total direct costs.
4. Proposals must include a brief budget narrative document detailing the major costs within the budget. For example, travel costs should include a breakdown of how many trips are planned, the estimated cost per trip, etc. If field costs are detailed in the budget template (number of field staff, roles, rates, etc.), they do not need further explanation in the budget narrative.
5. Any computer/equipment purchases should include a breakdown of what is being purchased (e.g. how many laptops), as well as the project staff that will be assigned to the equipment.
6. Unallowable costs include those labeled as “incidental,” “miscellaneous,” or “contingency.” Any costs for rent should be explained in the budget narrative.
7. The P&R Program is unable to cover program or intervention implementation costs, except in rare circumstances.
8. For full studies, we will be requesting the collection of implementation cost data. Researchers are encouraged to budget for this.
9. The Program strongly discourages requesting funding for the salary or time of researchers from institutions in developed countries. Funding under the study budget for the salaries and/or time of researchers from institutions in developing countries will be considered on a case-by-case basis by the selection committee.
10. While we ask for the project’s total budget, we do not require this to include researchers’ salaries.
11. It is your responsibility that your budget follows your host institution’s policies for costs. As part of your proposal, you must submit a letter from the institution to receive the award that states that they have reviewed your proposal and accepted your budget. If the organization allows you to submit your proposal without such a letter (due to time constraints or some other reason), please note this on the proposal cover sheet (under the “Institution to receive grant funds” field). Please note that this applies to all projects, including those going through J-PAL and IPA offices. You should contact them in advance to make sure you are aware of their policies for proposal review and give them enough time to meet the proposal deadline.
12. Please note that the research implementing organization must be able to comply with DFID’s contracting and spending guidelines.

Letters of Support

Please provide the following letters of support:

1. Full projects are required to provide a letter of support from the implementing partners. Applicants for pilot funding are encouraged to submit letters of support, if available.
2. Full projects are required to provide a letter of support from the institution that will receive the grant (which may be an IPA country office, a J-PAL regional office, or another institution).
3. If available, applicants should also include letters of support from potential scale-up partners.

Submission Instructions

Please submit the following through our online portal at:
https://innovationsforpovertyaction.formstack.com/forms/covid

1. Cover sheet and narrative saved as a single .docx file titled [PI last name]_[Proposal title].docx.
2. Separate budget form saved as a single .xlsx file titled [PI last name]_budget.xlsx
3. Letter(s) of support from implementing partners saved as .pdf files titled [PI last name]_[Partner name].

Process

We will be in touch with all applicants once funding determinations are made. If your proposal is awarded funding, the funds will be internally assigned to the IPA country office, if you will be working with an IPA country office, or provided under an award from IPA to the research implementing institution.

Please note that funded projects will be required to comply with the grant terms outlined in this document. For rapid COVID-19 off-cycle funding, we are unable to negotiate grant terms.

Institutional Review Board (IRB) approval is required for all studies. This approval may come from your host institution’s IRB or from IPA’s own IRB. If you are planning on using IPA’s IRB, please make sure to budget $2,000 for this process per IPA IRB’s protocols.
Evaluation Criteria

Proposals will be assessed against five equally weighted evaluation criteria.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Category</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Academic contribution</td>
<td>Does the study make a significant contribution toward advancing knowledge in the field? Does it answer new questions or introduce novel methods, measures, or interventions? Is there academic relevance? How does the study compare with the existing body of research? Does the research strategy provide a bridge between a practical experiment and underlying economic theories?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Policy relevance</td>
<td>Does the study address the priority questions outlined in the P&amp;R Guiding Principles and Funding Priorities document? Will results from the intervention have generalizable implications? How, if at all, will the “lessons learned” have relevance beyond this test case? Is there demand from policymakers for more/better information to influence their decisions in this area? Is there potential for the implementing partner to scale up this intervention?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technical design</td>
<td>Does the research design appropriately answer the questions outlined in the proposal? Are there threats that could compromise the validity of results? If so, does the proposal sufficiently address those threats? What changes could the researchers make to improve the design? For full study proposals, are there sufficiently detailed power calculations?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Project viability</td>
<td>Is the relationship with the implementing partner strong and likely to endure through the entire study? What is the credibility and policy influence of the implementing partner? Are there any other logistical or political obstacles that might threaten the completion of the study, for example, government authorization or Human Subjects review? For pilots, do researchers describe how piloting activities would inform a full-scale randomized evaluation? Does the research team have a track record of implementing successful projects similar to the one being proposed?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Value of research</td>
<td>Is the cost of the study commensurate with the value of expected contributions to science and policy? Does the study leverage funding from other sources?</td>
